

INTERSECTIONAL NURSING PRACTICE

California Nursing Student Association

Welcome!

Hello, and welcome to the Committee for Intersectional Nursing Practice. This committee was founded with the intent of creating an opportunity for nursing students to highlight structurally disadvantaged patient populations and the unique challenges they face due to their intersecting identities. For this term our co-chairs will focus on pregnancy related care and LGBTQIA2+ care. Our goal is to create materials so that in school, and in practice, nurses have the tools to provide nuanced care to patients who face unique obstacles.

What is Intersectionality?

Intersectionality was first coined by Kimberlé Crenshaw, a Black legal scholar and social justice advocate, to describe discrimination against Black women on the basis of race as well as sex. Over the years, intersectionality has become a lens through which we can visualize the unique experiences of discrimination people encounter and how gender, race, class, sexual orientation, physical ability, etc., play a part in this equation. Due to healthcare's historical mistreatment and disregard to underserved groups, we as nurses must be knowledgeable on how these intersecting identities impact our patients and the steps we can take to ensure inclusive and equitable care is provided to all.

INTRODUCTORY MEETING
JANUARY 31ST, 2022 @1:00PM

This zoom meeting will allow those interested in the committee to learn more about what the Intersectional Nursing Practice Committee is about and who the co-chairs are on a more personal level. We plan to discuss future event ideas and our plans to alternate between webinars and newsletters during the 2021/22 term. We hope to see you all there!
